

Generosity

Generosity. It comes as no surprise that the name of a man who gave so much in life is part of a word that defines altruism.

One of fourteen children of immigrant Ukrainian parents and an orphan at ten, Eugene Kinasevich was not born into wealth.

However, the gift of friendship Gene blessed us with was priceless in value. He was a man of integrity, kindness, and respect who dedicated his life to helping those in need. When Gene shook your hand he also touched your heart.

A master architect of humanity, Gene built bridges that spanned continents emphasizing the importance of cross-cultural cooperation. He inspired a structure for educational opportunities that lead to better lives and more positive futures.

Your gift to the Eugene Kinasevich Fund will keep his dream alive by helping deserving student athletes succeed and fulfill their own dreams.

The 18 students currently supported by Gene's Fund have been awarded scholarships and stipends from the exceptional schools they attend. Still, they need additional funds to cover expenses from housing to healthcare.

Gene's Fund looks to you for a big assist as we have precious few minutes left on the clock. With your help, realizing Gene Kinasevich's vision will be a victory for us all.

There has never been a better time to exemplify the true meaning of Generosity.

*Gene scored the winning goal against Boston College in overtime to secure the 1963 ECAC Championship for Harvard.
It's crunch time again and we need a big assist from you to achieve victory.*

Gene and teammate Tim Taylor, lifelong friends who changed the lives of others less fortunate for the better.

*Having graduated from Harvard Magna Cum Laude, Gene also earned two Masters Degrees and a Doctorate.
What better location than the steps of Widener Library for his favorite saying to resonate with us.
"Small steps taken are better than big jobs planned."*

As one of Harvard's youngest Deans, Gene's vision inspired students from around the corner and around the world.

Pasha Kozhokin
 Ranked #1 academically in his class at Norwich University, Pasha is a Civil Engineering major and a starting defenseman who helped lead his team to a national Division-III championship.
